Biographical/historical note:

The Wakeman family were early land holders in Fairfield and later in Ohio. Members were involved in the military, ministry, shipping, storekeeping and farming. John (1601-1661) was the progenitor of the family. He had a son Samuel (1635-1692) who in turn had three sons, Samuel (1657-1691), John (1660-1709) and Joseph (1670-1726). The materials in this collection concern the descendants of John and Joseph. The most notable Wakeman, in relation to this collection, is William Webb (1799-1869), the son of Jessup (1771-1844, who served as collector of Revenue in Fairfield) and Esther Dimon Wakeman. A sea captain, William was active in the coastal trade between New York, Boston, and Salem, Mass., later expanding his route to Georgetown (Washington, DC), Savannah Georgia and Galveston, Texas. As principal in the firm Wakeman, Dimon & Co., he engaged in trade with East India and China. At the start of the Civil War, Wakeman added steamships to his line, and these ships were used by the U.S. government as transports. For more information on the family and on William Webb, see The Wakeman Genealogy (1900). A chart of the Wakeman family, with members whose papers are included in the collection highlighted, can be found in the collection folder.

Scope and content note:

The collection primarily consists of legal and financial records of several generations of the Wakeman family. The individuals are arranged alphabetically with their papers organized chronologically.

A. Maria Wakeman's papers in Series 1 include photographs, newspaper articles, reminiscences of Fairfield schools and examples of school work, 1888-1913, 1935-1938, from Stratford and Dwight schools where she was a teacher, and a copy of Maria's obituary, 1938; and records she kept as clerk of the Greenfield Hill Church, 1925-1931.

Abbie D. Wakeman, Series 2, is represented by probate records of her estate, 1910. Andrew Wakeman (1745-1821) was a Lieutenant and later Captain in the 1st Company, 4th Conn. Regiment. His papers, organized in Series 3, consist of deeds and maps of properties, 1771-1816; receipts for rations and rum for his men, 1777; a slave purchase and emancipation document for the slave Jeffrey, 1801, 1812; his will, 1817; and receipts and accounts, 1816-1820.

David Wakeman is represented in Series 4 by deeds, 1857. The documents of two Ebenezers are arranged in Series 5. The first Ebenezer (1749-1801) is represented by a deed, 1785; the second (b. 1775) by a bill of sale, 1823. Eleanor Wakeman (1783-1873), daughter of Epaphras Wakeman and wife of Jesse Wakeman, sold land in Westport in 1836. These documents are arranged in Series 6.

Eli Wakeman (1768-1858) administered estates, carted goods, dug graves and sold dry goods and livestock. These transactions are recorded in an account book, 1834-1856, in Series 7. Henry Burr Wakeman (1820-1892), a noted agriculturist and fruit raiser from Greens Farms, is represented in Series 8 by deeds, 1838-1889, including contracts for the sale of crops such as onions, potatoes and hay. The papers of Jabez (1706-1774) and his wife Ruth Treadwell Wakeman, are arranged in Series 9. They consist of deeds, 1729-1738, and a writ, 1773. Jessup (1771-1844) Wakeman served as collector of revenue in Fairfield, and his account book, 1815-1816, and an inventory of his estate, 1843, are organized in Series 10.

John (1601-1666) the progenitor of the family is represented in Series 11 by signatures, both holographic and copies, ca. 1661. Deeds, 1759-1808, and an account book, 1769-1817 are attributed to John (1730-1809) and are arranged in Series 12. Series 13 contains the deeds of John B. Wakeman, 1888-1931.

Deeds dating 1843 and 1849, bearing the name Joseph Wakeman, are arranged in Series 18, although this particular individual has not been identified.

Mary Catherine Hull Wakeman (b. 1813), the wife of William Webb Wakeman, is represented by her own deeds, 1869, 1880, in Series 19. Series 20 contains the 1831-1838 shipping account book of Maurice (1801-1870) Wakeman. Ruth Rogers Wakeman (1712-1784), wife of Samuel (1713-1752), leased property to her son, Andrew, in 1762, and wrote her will in 1783. These documents are contained in Series 21.

At least five generations of Samuels are included in the collection, and again, attribution has been made but there may be some overlap of materials. Further refinement will be necessary. Series 22 contains the will, 1690, of Samuel (1657-1691). Significant among the papers of Samuel (1693-1771) are indentures for an Indian woman and her child, 1742. Additional documents in Series 23 include deeds, 1734-1751, bonds, 1738-1749, and a lease, 1789.
