Visiting the Fairfield Museum

Today we will be going to a history museum called the Fairfield Museum and History Center. The Museum has lots of local history to share. While we are there, we will look at artifacts, maps, and other items to learn together!

First, you will park at the Museum. We have two handicapped spots right in front of the main entrance.

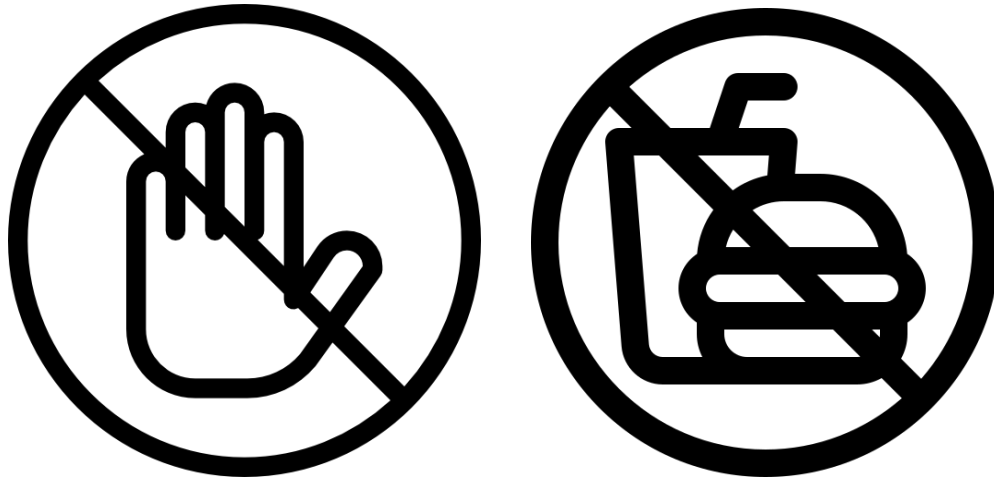

When we get to the Museum, we will go into the lobby and walk towards the front desk to pay admission. We will meet staff who work at the Museum. These people are very nice and are here to help make sure we stay safe and have fun. They can also answer any questions we might have about the Museum.

Once we have paid admission, we can explore the galleries. Everything is located on one floor, so we don't have to go far to see the exhibitions.

If we have coats, we can hang them up by the front doors.

There are few important rules we must follow to make sure we have a safe and fun time at the Museum.

1. Keep our hands down and our bodies safe. Please don't touch the artifacts and objects in the galleries. Look for signs that tell you certain objects or activities that can be touched.
2. No food or drink in the galleries.

Now we are ready to explore the Museum!

There are bathrooms and a water fountain if you need them. Feel free to ask the front desk staff if you need help finding them.

Some parts of the Creating Community exhibition have videos and sound playing. There are also all kinds of paintings, artifacts, and other kinds of objects on view in the exhibition. It is important to stay together to enjoy the galleries.

Some parts of the Creating Community exhibition have hands-on activities that the whole family can try out.

We can also find a large map that shares more information about the historic properties right behind the Museum. If we want, we can scan the QR code and go on a self-guided walking tour to learn more.

When we are ready to leave, we will head back to the lobby. If we hung up our coats, we will go back to pick them up. We can leave the Museum through the same door we used to enter. We can come back to the Museum and have fun again on another day!
